Information on Sending Your Child with Special Needs to Summer Camp

Finding a summer camp or program is only part of sending your child to camp. Other things to think about include: how to communicate with camp staff, what to pack and how to help if your child gets homesick. The following articles and resources address these concerns.

Researching Summer Camps

Sending your child with special needs to summer camp can be nerve-wracking. Will my child get the care they need? Will my child be able to fully participate? How do I choose what camp to send my child to? Luckily, there are resources available to help you find a camp that fits your child’s needs.

To learn about the benefits of camp, finding a camp that will work for your child, and questions to ask the camp, visit Kids Health at www.kidshealth.org/en/parents/finding-camp-special-needs.html?ref=search#.

What questions do I ask the camp?

The National Center on Physical Activity and Disability has a comprehensive list of questions to help you decide where to send your child for summer camp. Their list includes questions about the facilities, staff, camper care, and programs offered. View the list at www.nchpad.org/discover/faqs/index.html.

They also offer information on how to keep your child engaged when they come home from camp. Learn more at www.nchpad.org/discover/after.html

Preparing Your Child for Summer Camp

Kids Health has many useful tools to help you prepare your child for summer camp. Below are links to some of their articles.

What is an overnight or sleepaway camp? Use this article to help your child know what to expect: www.kidshealth.org/en/kids-going-to-camp.html?WT.ac=ctg#. It also includes a packing list to help them decide what to bring!

Is this your child’s first time away from home? Help prepare them with this article on homesickness: www.kidshealth.org/en/kids/homesickness.html?ref=search

For teens, visit the Summer Safety Center at www.kidshealth.org/en/teens/center/summer-center.html?ref=search. There you will find information on sun protection, water and bike safety and first aid.

Siblings Allowed: Yes
Volunteers Needed: Yes

Serves children with: ADD/ADHD, Autism, Asperger Syndrome, learning and developmental disabilities, and Pervasive Developmental Delay-Non Specific (PDD-NOS)

Camp description:

- Our approach to social skills focuses on a cognitive linguistic model. Rather than training skills, our goal is to have children and young adults understand how and why neuro-typical people act the way they do in a variety of settings and situations. This allows them to choose how to best interact with a variety of people and to gain the most from social interactions in the most comfortable way for them.

- We focus on finding and supporting strengths in 4 areas: Executive Functioning, Self-Advocacy, Self-Regulation, and Social Interaction. Although not all children have a formal diagnosis many will benefit from developing social skills, executive functioning, problem-solving, and receptive and expressive language development.
- Our aim is to encourage participants to focus on identifying and developing their talents and abilities. Your child will gain a greater sense of self-worth by implementing learned skills, along with the opportunity to have an enjoyable, fun, and successful experience.
- We encourage the development of critical life skills such as organization, time management, decision-making, perspective taking, cooperative problem solving, spoken and unspoken rules of communication, self-calming, and frustration management.

Camp description:

Things That Beep! (1 week camp, ages 4-7):

- In Things That Beep!, learners will tap into the world of engineering, learning about simple machines and the role they play in building amazing structures. With a focus on the mighty machines that campers see every day, from airplanes to the Light Rail, this camp is perfect for anyone who dreams of driving a fire truck or looks forward to recycling day!

Mud and Bugs (1 week camp, ages 4-7):

- Time to jump into the world of biology! In Mud and Bugs, learners explore the critters that live in their own backyards, going on nature walks, digging for worms, taking a closer look at the bugs and slugs that lurk beneath our feet. With a focus on dirt, this camp is perfect for the blossoming mud pie enthusiast!

Cooking With Chemistry (1 week camp, ages 4-7):
  • What better place to dive into chemistry than the kitchen! In Cooking with Chemistry, learners will explore states of matter, using what they learn about solids, liquids, and gasses to create incredible, edible chemical reactions. Campers will explore how energy can be used to transform matter, from gooey dough to crunchy cookies. From burping yeast to apple pies to edible paint, this camp will awaken the chemist inside!

Robotics 101, (1 week camp, ages 4-7)
  • In Robotics 101, learners are introduced to the basics of programming, exploring things that move, beep and help people do work. Campers will investigate and build their own simple robots, and test their creativity and their problem-solving skills with age-appropriate programming challenges. While exploring “robots” that help out around Seattle through special guests and fieldtrips, this introduction to robots and engineering will inspire.

Get Ready for Kindergarten! (2 week camp, ages 4-7)
  • The transition from preschool into kindergarten can be challenging. To prepare kids for the new challenges kindergarten brings, JUMP is pleased to offer a Kindergarten readiness camp. In Get Ready for Kindergarten campers will have a blast while practicing key kindergarten readiness skills Monday-Thursday, ending each week with a fun field trip on Friday. Using STEM activities as a vehicle for learning, campers will work in small groups to develop the skills needed to excel in kindergarten. This camp focuses on giving kids the confidence they need to dive into kindergarten!

Slime Extravaganza!, (1 week half or full day camp, ages 3-5)
  • Get ready to step into the world of chemistry! In Slime Extravaganza, learners will experiment with different states of matter, creating polymers, and concocting their own solutions and mixes. With a focus on messes, this camp is for anyone who loves dipping their hands into slimy creations, and experimenting with things that bubble and fizz!

Lights, Camera, Action! (2 week camp, ages 5-8)
  • In Lights, Camera, Action!, campers will spend the morning under the guidance of an applied theater specialist and playwright, using theater and art to practice social skills and have fun! In the afternoon, campers will dive back into science, exploring how technology can help them capture their moments on the stage—from the electricity that powers their spot lights to the cameras that roll back footage, this camp is just right for the actor ready to break out of their shell and the scientist ready to share their discoveries.

Scholarships for Summer Camp

Lifespan Respite: Did you know there is a website in Washington State dedicated to respite (short breaks)? If you are an unpaid family caregiver of any age, be sure to check out resources on the website, www.LifespanRespiteWA.org. There may even be limited camp and other scholarships available for those who meet eligibility requirements.

Ben’s Fund Autism Grant: The Ben’s Fund Mission is to provide grant opportunities to families across Washington State who need financial assistance with requests related specifically to their child's autism spectrum disorder treatments. From therapies to equipment, we support our local families by easing some of the financial strain associated with autism. To review eligibility and for instructions on how to apply visit www.featwa.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/10/Bens-Fund-Application-Instructions.pdf
